Pakistan's standing in the global rankings

Overview

Pakistan observed a slight improvement in the overall international rankings in 2021 covering socio-economic and political outcomes of the country. Several elements complemented the prospects including successful democratic transition, efficient counter-terrorism measures leading to enhanced peace and security, and foreign direct investment inflows under CPEC, among others. ## Development of Balochistan among our top priorities: PM

Balochistan Chief Minister Sarfraz Bugti met Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif to discuss the law and order situation, ongoing protests and development projects in the province, with the premier stressing that the province's growth remains one of the government's top priorities.

The meeting took place in Lahore, where CM Bugti also extended Eidul Fitr greetings to the prime minister. Officials said that the two leaders held a detailed discussion on the political, economic and security situation of Balochistan, as well as the progress of federal development initiatives in the province.

The discussions emphasised the federal government's unwavering support for Balochistan, with PM Shehbaz stressing that all necessary steps would be taken to accelerate development initiatives and improve the quality of life for its people.

Following the meeting, CM Bugti shared details on the social media platform X (formerly Twitter), expressing satisfaction with the prime minister's assurance of full cooperation and calling it a promising sign for the people of Balochistan.

Mr Bugti reiterated that ongoing projects, supported by the federal government, would play a crucial role in strengthening the province's economy and enhancing public welfare.

He emphasised that the government is taking all possible measures to resolve Balochistan's challenges while ensuring that all stakeholders are actively involved in the journey towards progress.

Meetings with political leaders
Amid efforts to build political consensus, the chief minister also met other key political figures during Eid days, including National Party President Dr Abdul Malik Baloch, and Senator Maulana Abdul Wasey, provincial head of Jamiat Ulema-i-Islam (JUI-F). Accompanied by his colleagues, Chief Minister Bugti visited Dr Baloch's residence, where they exchanged Eid greetings and engaged in discussions about the province's overall situation and development prospects.

Among those present were prominent figures such as Senator Mir Kabir Ahmad Muhammad Shahi, provincial minister Bakht Muhammad Kakar, and Parliamentary Secretary Mir Obaidullah Gorgage.

The meeting underscored the importance of political collaboration in addressing Balochistan's issues. Mr Bugti reaffirmed his commitment to inclusive governance, welcoming constructive proposals from all political parties to promote peace and development in the province.

Later, the chief minister met Maulana Abdul Wasey and discussed political affairs and development initiatives. Emphasising the need for harmony and cooperation, Mr Bugti insisted that all positive recommendations aimed at ensuring stability and prosperity in Balochistan would be valued. Relief in power tariff

Meanwhile, PM Shehbaz is expected to make a major announcement regarding a drastic reduction in electricity tariffs for both domestic and industrial consumers.

A senior official from the Prime Minister's Office said the premier will address the media during a briefing where the new relief package is likely to be revealed. "It is expected that the prime minister will announce a drastic cut in electricity tariffs for domestic and industrial consumers," the official said.

Recently, the prime minister has shelved a decision of the Economic Coordination Committee (ECC) of the cabinet regarding changes to the net metering policy for rooftop solar systems.

He reaffirmed that the government will continue its current solar policy, which allows electricity buyback from private producers at a rate of Rs27 per unit.

UAE visa issues 'resolved', says envoy

Pakistanis can now avail five-year visas following the resolution of "existing issues", Ambassador of the United Arab Emirates (UAE) to Pakistan Hamad Obaid Ibrahim Salem Al-Zaabi was quoted as saying.

The development came during a meeting between Zaabi and Sindh Governor Karmran Khan Tessori at the Governor's House.

"Visa issues have been resolved, Pakistanis can get a five-year visa," a statement released by the Governor's House quoted Ambassador Zaabi as saying.

Dawn reached out to the UAE's mission in Islamabad for more clarity on the envoy's statement, but did not receive a response until the filing of this report.

According to the statement, the envoy also invited the governor to visit the visa centre at the Karachi consulate.

Governor Tessori thanked the UAE diplomat for his country's investment in the province, especially in Karachi. The ambassador praised ongoing projects under the governor's initiative.

UAE authorities had lately increased the scrutiny of Pakistanis arriving in the country due to their alleged involvement in crime and unlawful activities, such as begging.

On December 23, a Senate panel was informed that all Pakistani travellers to the UAE needed to be vetted and verified by the police.

In another meeting on Jan 9, the Senate Standing Committee on Overseas Pakistanis and Human Resource Development was told that there were "no restrictions on work visas" for Pakistanis travelling to the UAE.

It was also learnt that visas to the UAE had been "unofficially closed" and its government had reservations that Pakistanis, on visit visas, resort to begging in the country.

In an interview with Geo News in November last year, the UAE consul general in Karachi, Dr Bakheet Ateeq Alrem-eithi, had revealed that Pakistanis may be facing visa rejections due to their negative activities on social media. However, he clarified that there was no ban on UAE visas for Pakistani nationals, per se.

Pakistan is 'prepared for anything' India might try

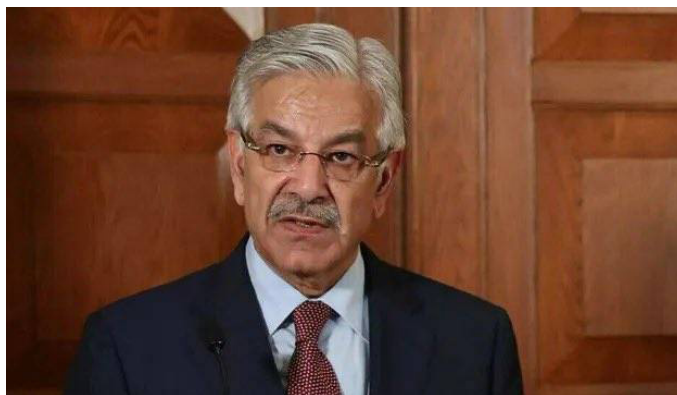

As friends in foreign capitals continue to advocate for a de-escalation of tensions in South Asia, Pakistan's defence minister said the country was ready for any incursion by India.

The two neighbours have been trading fire across the Line of Control (LoC) for four days now, with each blaming the other for provocation.

"We have reinforced our forces because it is something which is imminent now. So in that situation some strategic decisions have to be taken, so those decisions have been taken," Khawaja Asif told Reuters on Monday.

He said the military had briefed the government on the possibility of an Indian attack, but did not go into further details on his reasons for thinking an incursion was imminent.

His remarks follow New Delhi's increasingly aggressive posturing following an attack in a tourist resort in India-held Kashmir, which claimed over two dozen lives.

Immediately after the Pahalgam attack, India claimed two of the suspects were from Pakistan, albeit without proof. Islamabad has flatly denied any role and called for a neutral investigation.

In the interview, Mr Asif said Pakistan was on high alert and that it would only use its arsenal of nuclear weapons if "there is a direct threat to our existence".

Later, in an interview with Samaa TV, he said, "We should be mentally prepared, there is a war looming on the horizon."

The channel also quoted him as saying that there was a "vivid possibility" that "we can have war in the next day or two or three or four (sic)".

However, he later had to clarify these remarks, telling Geo News: "They (the channel) asked me what the chances of war are, so I said that the next two to three days were crucial."

"If something has to happen, then it will occur in the next two to four days otherwise the immediate danger will pass."

Mr Asif also clarified that his statement should not be misconstrued as a categorical prediction that war would begin within the next two to three days, reiterating that he had only said the "upcoming days would be crucial."

He reiterated that he had said there was a danger of war breaking out in the next few days but it could also be averted, as other countries in the region were working to avert any contentious situation and de-escalate the matter.

He said that Islamabad had approached friendly countries, including Gulf states and China, and also briefed Britain, the United States and others on the situation.

"Some of our friends in the Arabian Gulf have talked to both sides," Asif said, without naming the countries.

Over the past week, leaders and officials from China, Saudi Arabia, Iran and the UK have been in touch with Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif and Deputy PM Ishaq Dar. All of them have urged a de-escalation of tensions.

Pakistan asks world to block arms flows to terrorists

A Pakistani diplomat has called for concerted efforts to intercept clandestine flows of modern and sophisticated weapons to armed groups such as the banned Tehreek-i-Taliban Pakistan (TTP), Baloch Liberation Army (BLA) and its Majeed Brigade faction who use safe havens in Afghanistan to launch deadly attacks inside Pakistan.

"Terrorist armed groups are in possession of billions worth of illicit arms abandoned in Afghanistan," Syed Atif Raza, a counselor at the Pakistan Mission to the United Nations, told an Arriva-Formua meeting of the UN Security Council, convened by Sierra Leone.

This format of council's meeting is named after a former Venezuelan Ambassador to the UN, Diego Arriva. It is a consultation process which affords members of the Security Council the opportunity to hear persons in an informal setting.

The armament being used by TTP, BLA against Pakistani civilians and armed forces, UNSC meeting told

Speaking in a debate on "Small Arms and Light Weapons Management in UN Sanctions Regimes", the Pakistani delegate said such armament was being used by the banned TTP and BLA terrorists in violence against civilians and the armed forces of Pakistan.

"These terrorist entities also receive external support and financing from our principal adversary," Mr Raza said in an obvious reference to India.

"We call upon our international partners to recover the vast stockpile of abandoned weapons, prevent their access to armed terrorist groups and take measures to close this thriving black market of illicit arms."

The misuse and illicit flow of small arms and light weapons aggravates conflicts, threatens socio-economic progress and subverts peace and security, he said, pointing out that they have become instruments of choice for state and non-state actors.

He said that these concerns were further compounded with increasing sophistication of illicit arms and access to modernised weapons at the disposal of illegal armed groups often operating across national boundaries.

'Indus Waters Treaty crucial for regional stability'

Deputy Prime Minister and Foreign Minister Ishaq Dar emphasised that the implementation of the Indus Waters Treaty was crucial for regional stability, vowing Pakistan would take all necessary measures to ensure its full enforcement.

"The treaty is critical to regional stability and its sanctity must be preserved," Mr Dar said while speaking at a high-level meeting convened to strategize Pakistan's response to India's suspension of the decades-old accord.

The meeting was attended by Law and Justice Minister Azam Nazir Tarrar, Attorney General Mansoor Awan, senior officials, technical experts, and former foreign secretaries.

Mr Dar condemned India's move as a "unilateral and illegal" action that contravenes international law, established norms of inter-state relations, and the treaty's provisions. He warned that India's attempts to "weaponise water" posed a serious threat to the region's peace and stability.

"The waters of the Indus River System remain a lifeline for Pakistan's 240 million people," he said, underscoring the strategic and humanitarian importance of preserving the treaty.

He reiterated Pakistan's commitment to safeguarding its rightful share of water under the treaty and pledged to continue advocating for its full implementation to protect the country's water security and the well-being of its people.

'Pakistan won't strike first, but won't hold back either'

Foreign Minister Ishaq Dar said Pakistan will not strike India but reserves the right to retaliate, as he concluded his speech in the Senate on the recent tensions with India and diplomatic overtures deployed by Islamabad to contest New Delhi's allegations in light of the Pahalgam attack.

The Senate session also witnessed a call by PPP lawmaker Syed Masroor Ahsan, who endorsed the idea floated by the PTI seeking the involvement of PTI chief Imran Khan in the multi-party conference to send a "message of unity" in the country.

The idea initially floated by PTI's Ali Zafar was recalled by PTI's Aon Abbas in his speech on Tuesday, in which he said PML-N leader Nawaz Sharif, PPP leader Asif Ali Zardari, and PTI founder Imran Khan should participate in the moot to send a strong message.

PPP's Masroor Ahsan, while endorsing the idea, observed that the government should show flexibility and listen to the opposition. "Both sides need to set aside egos," he remarked. Earlier, at least three senators, Allama Nasir Abbas, Gurdeep Singh and Dost Muhammad, called for the release of Imran Khan from the Adiala jail.

However, PML-N Senator Nasir Butt said Imran Khan would have to face the law and prove his innocence to secure his freedom.

Senator Saifullah Abro of the PTI chided former prime minister Nawaz Sharif for his purported silence over the Pahalgam attack and demanded that the political leadership make strong statements over the issue.

Meanwhile, FM Ishaq Dar said Pakistan would pay back India in the same coin, but it would not initiate an attack.

Sharing details of Pakistan's diplomatic overtures following the escalation in the aftermath of the Pahalgam attack, he said foreign ministers of Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates, China, the United Kingdom, Türkiye, Azerbaijan, Kuwait, Bahrain, and Hungary have been taken on board about Pakistan's concerns.

He said he also spoke directly to the prime minister of Qatar. Mr Dar praised China and Türkiye for expressing clear support for Pakistan in the wake of the crisis. "I walked them through what happened India's psyche, its history and our concerns about what intentions it may have in light of that history," he told the House.

Mr Dar said intelligence reports suggest that India was contemplating some form of escalation.

Referring to the 2019 Pulwama attack that killed 40 Indian paramilitary personnel and was blamed on a Pakistan-based militant group, the deputy prime minister noted that New Delhi had used the incident as a pretext to revoke Article 370 of its constitution, which granted special status to Jammu and Kashmir.

The region was subsequently absorbed into India's union territory framework, a move Pakistan has repeatedly condemned. Ishaq Dar also said that India had been attempting to alter the 1960 Indus Waters Treaty, which determined the water-sharing mechanism between both countries, for the past two years, citing changing circumstances.

"I have my doubts, much like other people, that this drama was staged to suspend this treaty," he said while referring to the Pahalgam attack. He said there was no evidence that it was a false-flag operation. "What we do say with full confidence is that Pakistan has nothing to do with this [attack]."

According to Mr Dar, Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif offered an independent investigation into the Pahalgam attack fully knowing that Pakistan had nothing to do with it. He also made it clear that any meddling with Pakistani waters by India will not be tolerated at any cost and will be taken as an act of war.

Meanwhile, the House unanimously passed "The Biological and Toxins Weapons Convention (Implementation) Bill, 2025" and "The National Commission for Minorities' Rights Bill 2025 brought before it as a supplementary agenda.

Pakistan receives record $4.1bn in remittances

Overseas Pakistanis sent home a record sum of $4.1 billion last month, causing an upward revision in the targets for remittances and foreign exchange reserves, besides boosting hopes for a higher growth rate.

At the gong ceremony at the Pakistan Stock Exchange (PSX) on Monday, State Bank Governor Jameel Ahmed said that record remittances had led to a reset of the FY25 target from $35bn to $38bn.

He said $4.1bn in remittances reflected the government and the SBP's efforts to "incentivise the sending of money via formal channels".

Although the governor did not pinpoint the cause of rise in remittances, it is believed that hefty sums sent during Ramazan accounted for 10-15 per cent of the uptick. Hence, financial experts think that April may not see the same inflows.

According to Mr Ahmed, total remittances for FY25 are expected to be around $38 billion, against the previous target of $35bn.

Data issued by the State Bank shows inflows have already increased by $7bn during the July-March period year-on-year. The country received a total of $28.029bn during the first nine months of the current fiscal, while the inflow for the same period during FY24 amounted to $21.037bn.

In FY24 the total remittances were $30.25bn. If we add the $7bn higher remittances to last year's total, the figure reaches $37bn not far from the revised target of $38bn.

The development was hailed by PM Shehbaz Sharif, who expressed satisfaction over the increase in remittances sent by overseas Pakistanis last month, terming it "a reflection of their trust in the government's policies".

In a statement, he said the surge of 37.4 per cent in remittances reflected the "dedication, passion, and trust of overseas Pakistanis in the country's economy".

Calling them a valuable asset, the prime minister said overseas Pakistanis had strengthened the country's economy through their hard work.

"The nation is proud of hard-working overseas Pakistanis and the government is committed to providing them with all necessary facilities," PM Shehbaz said.

The governor projected economic growth at three per cent for FY25, against the World Bank's estimate of 2.6pc.

"It (GDP) would have grown to 4.2 per cent in the year had agricultural output remained robust at the previous year's level of eight per cent," he said.

The central bank chief was hopeful of an increase in foreign exchange reserves target from 13bn to $14bn by end of FY25.

"The economy has successfully transitioned from instability to a stable mode, boosting the stakeholders' confidence in the economy.

"Pakistan has seen off a period of macroeconomic instability characterised by high inflation, low reserves and fears of default and entered a period of stable macroeconomic conditions and renewed confidence," Jameel Ahmed said.

He pointed to significant improvements across multiple indicators, signalling a much-needed revival of economic growth. He said inflation had come down substantially, the external current account balance had turned into a Surplus, forex buffers have been rebuilt, and public debt indicators have improved considerably during the past couple of years.

"Now it is crucial to focus on sustainable growth," he said, pointing out that enhancing productivity and boosting exports must become central to Pakistan's growth model. as "exports directly contribute to greater productivity, innovation and foreign investment".

Mr Ahmad urged stakeholders to commit themselves to long-term strategies that ensure sustainable and inclusive growth. He underscored the need for reforms to address structural issues, avoid boom-bust cycles and stagnation. The governor reaffirmed that enhancing financial inclusion remained a top strategic goal for the SBP.

The governor shared key initiatives under the National Financial Inclusion Strategy 2024-28, including efforts to increase financial inclusion from 64 per cent to 75 per cent by 2028, while reducing the gender gap in financial services from 34 per cent to 25 per cent by 2028.

PSX Chairperson Dr Shamshad Akhtar emphasised the transformative power of financial education during her address.

"There is no doubt that literacy, particularly financial literacy, is critical for any society. Financial literacy serves as the bedrock for an inclusive economy.

Reflecting on the PSX's vision, MD & CEO Farrukh H. Sabzwari said Pakistan's investor base remains below 400,000, indicating that there is considerable room for growth.

"We are working closely with all stakeholders to educate the public on investment avenues and diversity in participation. With continued support, our aim is to expand the number of IPOs to 40 over the next three years, increasing market depth and investor confidence," he said.

A self-taught writer, Alishba began crafting full-length novels at just 11, far beyond the scope of her peers' school essays. Her passion for storytelling was shaped by her early interest in global affairs, further sharpened by growing up in Balochistan. Following the announcement, Alishba said, "As I've said before, my mission has always been to rewrite the narratives that define us. This award is dedicated with all my heart to my parents, my teachers, my beloved province Balochistan, and my country Pakistan. Yesterday, when my country's name was called among global achievers, it was more than a personal milestone - it was proof that stories of resilience and brilliance can rise from Nushki and Quetta, not just the headlines of conflict and militancy we've grown used to.
